

Hopanoids in nitrogen fixing cyanobacteria

Ondřej Prášil

Laboratory of Photosynthesis

Abstract:

Hopanoids are structural membrane lipids of bacteria. In my talk I will introduce them to the audience and will focus on their possible role in nitrogen fixation. I will present our recent results regarding the correlation between hopanoid presence and nitrogen fixation in model cyanobacterial diazotrophs.